Organizing the 4-H Club to be Featured in First Program of 1933 4-H Radio Series

Featuring the central theme "4-H club work has educational value," the 1933 4-H radio series will open on January 7, with a discussion of the things a club member learns from helping in the organization of a 4-H club. Lucille Morisey, who has been a club member in Paulding County, Ohio, for eight years and president of her club for several years, will tell how club work appealed to her, about the projects she selected, and why she believes that club work presents splendid educational advantages for the farm girl. Virgil Shrider, a 4-H local leader, also from Paulding County, will explain how enrollments of new members are encouraged and how community support for club work is assured. An explanation of how a 4-H club is organized, adoption of the constitution, election of officers, selection of local leader, appointment of committees, and the like, will be given by Edwin Lowe of New London County, Conn. Edwin has been a club member for four years, and was selected as a delegate to Camp Vail in 1932. He has been instrumental in organizing a poultry club and a weedless-garden club. Director C. W. Warburton of the United States Department of Agriculture will discuss the need for 4-H club work. The new 4-H music series will bring each month some selections from the works of the world's great composers. During the January program, compositions by Schubert, Mozart, and Berlioz will be presented.

NEW 4-H RADIO SERIES ANNOUNCED FOR 1933

Educational Value of Club Work Will be Emphasized

"4-H club work has educational value" will be the theme of the 1933 4-H radio series which will open on January 7. During the programs in this series, which will be broadcast on the first Saturday of each month, the more important phases of 4-H club work that contribute to the education of the club member will be explained by club members, local leaders, extension workers, and others.

The 1932 series of programs showed that 4-H club work has economic value. The 1933 series is intended to show how 4-H club work develops farm boys and girls intellectually, teaches them to use modern farming and home-economics methods, stimulates and aids them to complete their education, and improves their ability to think constructively and to plan intelligently. The following general topics will be discussed during the monthly programs:

January 7, Organizing the 4-H club; February 4, Conducting the 4-H club meeting; April 1, Formulating the 4-H program; May 6, Project instruction; June 3, Summer-school instruction; July 1, 4-H camps; August 5, 4-H tours; September 2, 4-H demonstrations and judging; October 7, Educational rewards of 4-H club work; November 4, 4-H achievement; and December 2, 4-H leadership. No program has been arranged for the first Saturday in March, which falls on Inauguration Day.

Music of World's Great Composers to be Featured

The 1933 4-H radio series will feature, also, some of the most important compositions of the world's great composers. Schubert, Mozart, Mendelssohn, Wagner, Beethoven, Verdi, Liszt, and other equally great composers will be represented. The United States Marine Band will play the music, and interesting facts about the compositions and the composers will be given by Ray Turner of the Office of Cooperative Extension Work. This series of monthly musical periods, known as the National 4-H Music Achievement Test, has been arranged primarily for the entertainment and instruction of 4-H club members. The final program on December 2 will constitute a test of ability of 4-H club members to remember the titles of various compositions and the names of their composers. Many States are making plans to coordinate their local music-appreciation activities with the national 4-H music achievement series.

The national 4-H club radio programs are conducted primarily for farm boys and girls in the 4-H clubs. They carry news of the important happenings in 4-H club work. They are arranged jointly by State extension divisions and the United States Department of Agriculture, and are made possible through the cooperation of the National Broadcasting Co. and its coast-to-coast network of 57 radio stations. They go on the air always on the first Saturday of each month from 12.30 to 1.30 p.m., eastern standard time, which is from 11.30 a.m. to 12.30 p.m. in the central time zone, 10.30 to 11.30 a.m. in the mountain time zone, and 9.30 to 10.30 a.m. in the Pacific time zone.

Comments from club members, local leaders, and extension workers regarding this series will be appreciated. Suggestions for themes that can be worked out for future series will be particularly welcomed. Letters should be addressed to the Office of Cooperative Extension Work, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C.

How 4-H Club Meetings Are Conducted

To be Explained During 4-H Radio Program of February 4

Continuing the 1933 4-H radio series featuring the theme "4-H club work has educational value," the second phase, scheduled for broadcasting from 12.30 to 1.30 p.m., eastern standard time, on February 4, will be devoted to the things that club members learn from conducting 4-H meetings. The program will be opened with a talk by John Poteat, a 4-H club member of considerable experience and accomplishment from Washington County, Tenn. John will tell what he has learned from the 4-H club meetings he has attended and presided over. Following his talk, Lucille Albrecht, who has spent 10 years in 4-H club work, will give an account of the training and instruction received through her attendance at meetings. The next 30 minutes will be spent with some of the world's great composers. Selected compositions from Handel, Chopin, and Mendelssohn will be played by the United States Marine Band, and information about the composers and the music will be given by R. A. Turner. Cleo Fitzsimmons, extension specialist in girls' club work in Illinois, will relate how 4-H club work is conducted and what it has accomplished in Illinois. The program will be concluded with a talk outlining the educational opportunities that 4-H club work presents to the farm boy and girl which will be given by C. J. Galpin of the United States Department of Agriculture. The national 4-H club programs are broadcast always on the first Saturday of each month over a network of 57 radio stations associated with the National Broadcasting Co.

Formulating the 4-H Radio Program
To Be Theme of 4-H Radio Program of April 1

Continuing with the series of 4-H radio broadcasts featuring the central theme "4-H club work has educational value," the third phase, which will cover the formulation of community 4-H club programs, will be presented on April 1. The two preceding broadcasts showed how 4-H clubs are organized and how club meetings are conducted. The talks will be presented by negro extension field agents of the United States Department of Agriculture and by negro 4-H club members. In her talk entitled "Our 4-H Club Members Work Together," Sallie Davis of Virginia will show how members of her club have cooperated in attaining the objectives of their local 4-H program of work, and what they have learned through these cooperative efforts. Sallie has been a club member for 10 years, during which she has devoted her efforts to gardening, canning, cooking, clothing, and room improvement. George Peasant of Alabama will tell how his 4-H club plans its work ahead for the year. George has been in club work for seven years and has used the money he has earned in club work to help him through school. J. B. Pierce, negro field agent for the United States Department of Agriculture, will tell what extension workers are doing to teach negro 4-H club members to think for themselves, and T. M. Campbell, negro field agent for the United States Department of Agriculture, will discuss the topic "Negro 4-H Club Members Make Intelligent Farmers and Home Makers." Both of these field agents will draw upon their extensive experiences in conducting negro extension work in the South. Thirty minutes will be devoted to the works of some of the world's great composers. Compositions by Rossini, Weber, Sullivan, and Tschaikowsky will be played by the United States Marine Band and explained by R. A. Turner.

What Club Members Learn Through Project Work To Be Featured in 4-H Radio Program of May 6

How club members improve their technic of farming and home making through 4-H club work will be explained during the monthly 4-H radio program scheduled for broadcasting from 12:30 to 1:30 p.m., eastern standard time, on Saturday, May 6. Ruth Davis, a New Jersey 4-H club member, will open the program with her talk entitled "What Home Project Work Has Taught Me." Ruth has been an active club member during the past two years and has been very successful in making her clothing, as well as in other 4-H project work. What I Have Learned as a Dairy Club Member will be discussed by Delbert Williams, a Mississippi 4-H club member. Dairy-club work has been Delbert's most outstanding accomplishment in five years of 4-H club work. In her talk entitled "4-H Project Activities in New Jersey," Mildred B. Murphey, the assistant State home demonstration leader, will tell about the various 4-H projects being emphasized in the State and their educational effect on the club member. Gertrude Warren, of the United States Department of Agriculture, will tell how 4-H club members throughout the country are learning new and better methods of farming and home making. Margaret Latimer of South Dakota and George Harris of Kentucky, who in consideration of their high rank in scholarship and leadership and of excellence in 4-H club work performed have been awarded fellowships by the Payne Fund of New York permitting them to study nine months in the United States Department of Agriculture, will tell what they have learned. The 4-H music achievement period, which has for its annual theme The World's Great Composers, will be devoted to a study of the compositions of Wagner, Beethoven, and Brahms. These will be played by the United States Marine Band and interpreted by R. A. Turner.

4-H Club Work and Educational Opportunities
To Be Discussed During June 3 Radio Program

Does 4-H club work inspire 4-H club members to continue their education? Speakers on the national 4-H club radio program scheduled for June 3 will answer this question. Mildred Almstedt, who was for 10 years a 4-H club member in New York, will tell how 4-H club work helped her to overcome tremendous difficulties in attaining her desire to go to college. William McNamara, a Maryland 4-H club member, will tell about his experiences during club week at the University of Maryland, and how the instruction he received has helped him in his farming. The New York State Club Congress, held every year to acquaint club members with their State College and to give them special training, will be described by W. J. Wright, the State 4-H club leader of New York. R. A. Turner, who is connected with the Extension Service of the United States Department of Agriculture, will answer the question "Do 4-H club members go to College?" This month's phase of the musical achievement test will be devoted to a study of the musical compositions of Grieg, Gounod, and Schumann. The compositions will be played by the United States Marine Band and explained by Morse Salisbury, Chief of Radio Service, United States Department of Agriculture. National 4-H club radio programs are broadcast regularly on the first Saturday of each month from 12:30 to 1:30 p.m., eastern standard time. The theme for the 1933 series is "4-H club work has educational value."

Speakers to Discuss Educational Value of 4-H Camps on Radio Program, July 1

The training and instruction received by club members at 4-H camps will be discussed during the national 4-H club radio program to be broadcast over 57 N.B.C. stations on Saturday, July 1, from 12:30 to 1:30, p.m., eastern standard time. In his talk entitled "Camping Out in Our County", Jack Thurmond, a Kentucky 4-H club member, will tell about the things he has learned from attending his county 4-H club camp. What a State 4-H club camp does for club members in an educational way will be outlined by William H. Kendrick, who has developed at Jackson's Mill, W. Va., one of the Nation's finest and most successful State club camps. Katharine Washburn, a West Virginia club member, who attended the annual 4-H club encampment in Washington, D. C., in June, will explain about the interesting things seen and the useful instruction received. The many and varied things that club members learn at 4-H club camps will be explained by Madge Reese, who in her capacity as field agent for the Extension Service of the United States Department of Agriculture, has long been associated with extension work among farm women, girls, and boys. The music selected for study during the 4-H music achievement test will consist of compositions by Elgar, Offenbach, and Richard Strauss. These selections will be played by the United States Marine Band and explained by R. A. Turner, of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Educational Value of 4-H Tours
Theme of Radio Program of August 5

------0------

What 4-H club members learn from taking part in organized tours of farms and farm homes where improved practices are in use will be featured in the national 4-H radio program to be broadcast over 56 N.B.C. stations from 12:30 to 1:30 p.m., eastern standard time, on Saturday, August 5. In her talk entitled, "What 4-H Club Work Has Meant to Girls in My Community", Edna Guernsey, an Indiana 4-H club member, will give an account of a tour that she made to the homes of girl club members in her community. She will tell how these 4-H girls have made improvements in their standards of living, how they have increased their efficiency in performing home tasks, and how they are making better use of their leisure time. Marvin W. Klair, a 4-H club member from Delaware, will tell how he obtained new ideas about farming from observations he made during a tour to farms in his neighborhood. What Indiana club members learn from a well-organized tour of visits to farms and homes where good practices are in successful operation will be discussed by Harry F. Ainsworth, the associate State club leader of Indiana. Reuben Brigham, who is in charge of the informational activities of the Extension Service of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, will tell some stories of how club members in various States have put to practical use the instruction they have received through their 4-H club activities. The August 4-H music achievement test will be devoted to a study of compositions by Debussy, Rubinstein, and Bizet. These selections will be played by the United States Marine Band and explained by R. A. Turner, Extension Service, U. S. Department of Agriculture.

National 4-H Achievement Celebration Arranged

On November 4, the United States Department of Agriculture will cooperate in presenting the fourth national 4-H achievement-day radio program, which will be broadcast from 12:30 to 1:30 p.m., eastern standard time, over a network of the National Broadcasting Co. The program will be in three parts. The first part, to be broadcast from Washington, D. C., over the entire network of 58 stations, will be a 15-minute program featuring a message to club members. The second part will be a 30-minute program arranged by State extension services and broadcast over local stations on the network. The third part will again go out over a national hook-up, and will consist of a talk by Director C. W. Warburton, who will summarize the accomplishments of club members during the year. Club members everywhere are planning to listen to this program, arranged in honor of their 4-H achievements.
